FRESH MARKET

AWARD 2023 NOMINATED PRODUCTS

Global promotion of new products in the Polish market is our specialty! Every year we grant an award for the most innovative and interesting product of the year. The award is based on the votes of Fresh Market website users and event participants.

THIS YEAR, 3 OUTSTANDING PRODUCTS ARE PARTICIPATING IN THE COMPETITION.

Apple Pomegranate Red Fruits - HPP, Cold Pressed Juice

Good and refreshing apple, pomegranate and red fruit juice. Cold extracted, treated with HPP technology and made from 100 % fruit. Cold extraction and HPP treatment, unlike common pasteurization, ensure that the organoleptic and nutritional qualities of the starting fruit are maintained in the juice. These juices should be stored in a cold chain at max. 8°C with a shelf-life of up to 60 day.

Flat cabbage Callaway F1

Callaway F1 flat cabbage. This is primarily a cabbage with a flattened head shape, standing out from standard cabbages. It has interesting culinary values. The green, appetizing color, amazing taste and it is very crunchy. The flat shape allows obtaining a larger leaf surface for preparing stuffed cabbage rolls. The crunchiness and taste gives Callaway cabbage salads an interesting culinary experience. Callaway F1 cabbage is different, very tasty with a delicate character.

CMSA FILM MESH & VERTICAL PACKAGING SOLUTIONS

EARTHPACK

Fully recyclable in the paper and board container and biodegradable in soil and sea if it escapes from the recycling circuit. This is an alternative to banned plastics for products such as tomatoes, apples, carrots, potatoes, onions, green beans, kiwis, and avocados. Earthpack can be used with or without a tray. The reinforced packaging window allows the machines to operate at high speed performance.

Delicious Moldovan Fruits Finding a Home in Polish Markets

Poland's supermarket shelves are lighting up with an array of exquisite Moldovan fruits as trade between the two nations flourishes.

In recent years, the fruit trade between Moldova and Poland witnessed a significant growth, marking a fruitful collaboration between the two countries. While historically, Poland has been a supplier of various products to Moldova, including dairy, meat, machinery, and equipment, in recent times, Moldova has emerged as a growing supplier to Poland, exporting a diverse range of products including wine, fruits, vegetables, and nuts – all highly sought-after in the Polish market.

Moldova became a consistent supplier of fruits in the Polish market, offering plums, grapes, apricots, cherries, and raspberries. From May's juicy raspberries to January's final grape exports, Polish consumers can savor the unique flavors of Moldovan fruits throughout the year.

Crop	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	Jun	Jul	Aug	Sep	Oct	Nov	Dec
Raspberry						X	X	X
Apricot	X	X	X	X	X					X	X	X
Plum									X	X	X	X
Grape	X	X								X	X
Cherries						X	X

Sweet cherries

Equally impressive is the significant increase in Moldovan cherry exports to Poland. In just one-year, cherry exports grew from a modest 20 tons in 2021/2022 to a staggering 300 tons in 2023. This substantial growth underscores the increasing trust of Polish consumers in the quality and consistency of Moldovan cherries. Producers have adjusted their production and post-harvest techniques, ensuring the preservation of quality until the final consumer.

Plums

Polish consumers are already well-acquainted with Moldovan plums, which have been making their presence felt in increasing quantities year after year. In 2022, there was a temporary dip in plum exports due to unfavorable weather conditions affecting the harvest. Nonetheless, Moldova exports up to 4,500 tons of plums annually to Poland. Among the favorite varieties are Stanley, President, and Cacanska Rana.

Raspberries

Over the past two years, Moldovan raspberry producers have been diversifying their markets. Presently, over half of the raspberries exported from Moldova find their way to the Polish market.

Grapes

A success story for Moldova revolves around the Moldova grape variety. Previously, these grapes were mainly found in wholesale markets. However, starting from 2022, Moldovan grapes have secured their place on the shelves of Polish supermarkets. This achievement is a result of Moldovan producers' investments in ensuring high-quality grapes, modern packaging that can cater to buyers' preferences, and adaptability to consumer demands. Around 3,500 tons of grapes were exported to Poland last year.

Moldovan fruit producers regard Poland as a trustworthy and mutually beneficial trade partner. The consistent demand for Moldovan fruits in the EU market, including Poland, has driven producers to adapt their production and post-harvest practices and implement safety standards such as GlobalGAP/GRASP and SMETA.

As Moldovan fruits become increasingly present in Polish markets and supermarket shelves, this close collaboration continues to evolve, bringing forth economic benefits and strengthening relations between the two countries. The trade of fruits between Moldova and Poland is on a continuous upward trajectory, with more importers visiting Moldovan fruit orchards to bring carefully nurtured, quality fruits to the Polish consumers. Grounded in values like quality and market adaptability, Moldova will undoubtedly continue to deliver high-quality fruits to Poland, further solidifying this partnership.

The Moldova Fruct Association can help match prospective buyers with outstanding Moldovan producers for a long-lasting partnership.

How is the UK garden centre sector faring?

Despite a few years of unprecedented uncertainty and change between 2020-2022, the UK garden centre industry has performed well, writes FCI contributor Anisa Gress.

During the Covid-19 lockdown, the Government identified the UK garden centre sector as an 'essential business' contributing to mental health and wellbeing, allowing them to continue trading. This allowed retailers to satisfy the growing number of new customers who took up gardening or spent more time improving their outside spaces resulting in an unexpected boom in sales. As restrictions lifted, the activity naturally slowed, but in 2022 the sector was valued at an impressive £3bn.

Garden Centre Challenges

Holding on to new gardeners while continuing to inspire established customers is a challenge for the industry, but this is by no means the only one. Although parts of the border check process for importing from Europe have improved, there are still concerns. High energy prices and inflation rates are feeding the public's disinclination to spend due to a fear of recession.

Added to these is a ban on selling peat products by 2024, environmental legislation which is adding another tier of administration, the struggle to recruit hospitality staff and last but certainly not least, the unpredictability of the weather.

It is not all doom and gloom

But it's not all doom and gloom; many challenges go hand in hand with opportunities. David Lydiat, Public Affairs and Policy Manager for the Horticultural Trades Association, predicts garden centres will come through. He says, "Garden centres are different because they provide a happier and more family-orientated day out."

He believes they go above and beyond. "Customer service is excellent, and staff go the extra mile. You will struggle to find better," says David, who adds that because of their older, more cash-rich customers, they will come through challenging times. "While footfall might be slightly less, garden centres are diversifying with, for example talks from specialists and other entertainment. They are not standing still."

Another opportunity is the rise in demand for a simple coffee and cake or home-cooked lunch where garden centres excel. Many are expanding their retail food offer and increasing covers in cafes and restaurants, attracting local customers and those from further afield and, crucially, generating a revenue stream 12 months of the year.

Big-ticket items will be harder to sell

At the Hillier Garden Centre group, Chris Francis, Garden Centre Director, thinks the UK's economic situation will impact the industry for the next four to five years, and big-ticket items will be more difficult to sell. Even though it has a strong core of customers with high disposable income, it will not be immune. "We should be less affected because many are keen gardens which always want their gardens to look good. Hillier is known for its plants' outstanding quality and value, and they will still be in demand," he says.

An increase in catering is fuelled by customers changing their 'eating out' habits preferring an affordable treat at a garden centre rather than an expensive evening meal. "We must remain astute but are good at reacting to challenges."
